

Business Controls Manager

Excellent package, Hammersmith

AOL Europe is a business unit of America Online Inc., the world's leading interactive services company with more than 29 million members worldwide and part of Time Warner Inc., the world's largest media company.

AOL is currently going through dramatic and exciting development in Europe, pushing the boundaries of the online experience. Central to this development is the recruitment of a highly driven individual to work alongside senior finance management across the major European territories to enable it to meet its business objectives.

This is an exciting opportunity for a candidate with a proven track record in establishing internal controls, who is looking to take on a wide remit and add value to this global player's entire European operation.

Highly rated amongst your peers, you will be a qualified accountant with 3-6 years' post-qualified experience, have outstanding relationship-building skills and tremendous attention to detail. In particular, you will have worked on high-level Sarbanes-Oxley compliance projects and have an in-depth understanding of documentation and testing issues. European language skills are an advantage.

If you feel that you have the skill-set, motivation and aptitude for this role, please respond in confidence to the details below.
