

Finance Director

Circa £60k plus package, Central London

Founded in 1895 by Czech privileged brewers, Budweiser Budvar has become an award winning international brand, renowned for its excellence in the production of premium lager. An exciting commercial and operational position has arisen in this entrepreneurial, dynamic and charismatic business, reporting directly to the CEO as the No.1 finance position within the UK subsidiary.

You will be responsible for:

- Driving future growth through brand development
- Identifying and evaluating new commercial business streams to increase profitability
- Owning and managing the finance function and company profit effectively
- Reviewing and enhancing financial controls, budgets, revenues, pricing, planning and strategy as well as driving reporting harmonisation
- Partnering the marketing and PR departments

The person will be a qualified accountant (ACCA / ACA / CIMA) or equivalent with at least 5 years' experience in brewing, FMCG or another related industry. They will have a proven track record of implementing change and increasing sales and profitability, with the credibility and drive to operate and influence across the business to board level. Good relationship building skills and a strategic mindset are essential, as is the ability to demonstrate a commercially focused career to date.
