

Thirty years of growth...sales of £1.7billion... and now a new beginning.

Group Finance Managers c.£65k plus bonus and excellent benefits, London

Opportunities like these are rare. If not unique.

After all, how often do you see a successful company – twice voted “UK Business of the Year”, with a 30-year track record of exceptional growth, a £1.7 billion turnover, and 12,000 expert staff in 28 countries, serving 100,000 clients in 60 countries – creating a new global financial management team?

As a global leader in providing clients worldwide with value-added information solutions, we have an exciting future ahead. Following the demerger of ARG and Experian from GUS, we expect to become a separately listed company on the London Stock Exchange in October 2006 (subject to approvals). As a result, Experian will need a number of talented financial managers for positions in the new group finance team.

Reporting to the Head of Financial Planning and Analysis, these roles will demand a high level of commercial awareness, strong analytical and planning skills and five years’ post-qualified experience. If you share our passion for excellence, these are outstanding opportunities for enthusiastic and influential team players who thrive under pressure.

Financial Planning

Leading the group financial planning process and all other aspects of financial planning, including short term forecasts, budgets and strategic plans, you’ll monitor and analyse performance, challenge and resolve planning issues, and as act as the group’s expert in American trading and commercial activities.

You should be a strong negotiator, an excellent networker and ideally have a track record of leading the delivery of budgets and forecasts for a company or a division of a group.

Financial Analysis

You’ll lead the development and delivery of externally and board focused financial analysis. This will include challenging all global board papers, providing financial decision support at group level and leading complex global analysis projects. You’ll also be the key financial manager providing support to our Investor Relations team.

An inspirational manager and influential operator, you must have experience of commercially focused financial analysis and modelling.

Reporting & Analysis

Managing and continually developing the group’s management reporting, you’ll critically review and challenge trading results. You’ll prepare briefings for the Board and Investor Relations team on key commercial issues, advising on financial reporting and performance.

Having had exposure to PLC management reporting, you must be a strong people manager and team player with the listening and communication skills to influence senior executives on a daily basis.

In each and every case, the personal, professional and financial rewards for joining Experian, are exceptional. Like the company.

In the first instance, please contact our retained consultants, replying in confidence and quoting reference FT/SK/806 to: Mark Doig ACMA at: markdoig@financeprofessionals.com or Shereen Khan at: shereenkhan@financeprofessionals.com 26-28 Bedford Row, London WC1R 4HE. Telephone 020 7845 4135.

Business of the Year
2003 and 2005

Great people, growing business

www.experian.co.uk